

NEW YORK STATE HOME PROCESSOR REGISTRATION

Section 276.3 (3) of the New York State Agriculture and Markets regulations states that: "Home processed food within the context of this Part shall mean any food processed in a private home or residence using only the ordinary kitchen facilities of that home or residence which are also used to prepare food for the owner thereof, his family, nonpaying guests and household and farm employees who reside therein, but shall exclude potentially hazardous foods as defined in this Part or thermally processed low-acid foods packaged in hermetically sealed containers as covered by Part 277 of this Chapter and acidified foods packed in closed containers, including but not limited to pickles and relishes prepared from low-acid fruits, vegetables, poultry, meat, meat products, fish or seafood.

NOTE: Commercial equipment is not considered ordinary kitchen facilities.

NOTE: If on a private water system (well) resident must have a water test analysis performed for Coliform, and include a copy of the test results with application, before a home processor can be registered.

All items are for marketing products at wholesale and/or retail, including agricultural venues such as farms, farm stands, farmers markets, green markets, craft fairs and flea markets, via home delivery or via the internet. All items must be sold within New York State and must be properly labeled.

NOTE: This exemption does not allow for home processors to make specialty items, such as birthday cakes, wedding cakes, graduation cakes.

Product labels are required to contain the following information: common/usual name of the product, ingredient list in predominance by weight, net quantity of contents, and processor name and full address. All allergens (eggs, milk, fish, shellfish, soybeans, peanuts, tree nuts) must be clearly identified in the product ingredient statement.

In order to protect public health and to minimize the potential of food product adulteration, this exemption is restricted to the following 'approved' non-potentially hazardous home processed foods.

FAQ's:

Q. How long does it take to receive my approval for home processing from your Department?

A. Approval generally takes two weeks.

Q. Do I need to have my kitchen inspected?

A. Kitchens are reviewed on a complaint basis only.

Q. Can I have a website?

A. Yes. Internet sales are allowed within New York State only. Shipping products out of state is not permitted.

Q. Are interstate sales allowed?

A. No, all home processed foods must be sold within New York State.

Q. What information needs to be on my label?

A. Product labels are required to contain the following information: common/usual name of the product, ingredient list in order of predominance by weight, net quantity of contents, and processor name and full address.

Q. Do I have to put my home address on the label?

A. Yes. The place of business shall include the street address or PO Box, city, State and ZIP code.

Q. How do I add products to my approval?

A. To add products to your approval, you will need to submit form FSI-898c (Home Processor Registration Request). On the form, please make a note that this is a supplemental registration and include a list of products you wish to add.

Q. Does my Home Processor Registration expire?

A. No. The Home Processor Registration does not currently have an expiration date. If you move, you will need to reapply for the exemption, as it is location specific.

Q. Can my Home Processor Registration be rescinded?

A. Yes, the Home Processor Registration will become Null & Void if you make or sell foods that are not allowed under the exemption or if you open a food business which is inspected and permitted/licensed by either the Department of Agriculture & Market or the Department of Health. In this case, all food must be manufactured in the commercial facility.

- Q. Why are fruit/vegetable breads prohibited under this exemption?
- A. Fruit/vegetable breads generally demonstrate a higher moisture content which requires refrigeration. Refrigerated products are not allowed as a registered Home Processor.
- Q. Why is tempering/melting chocolate for candy and/or dipping not allowed?
- A. Chocolate and chocolate-like products have been implicated in food borne illnesses. Melting chocolate is not a thermal process (no control step). Chocolate melts at very low temperatures.
- Q. Why are raw nuts prohibited under this exemption?
- A. The use of raw nuts is not allowed because there is no control step with raw products. Raw nuts have been linked to Foodborne Illness (i.e. salmonella). Processors who wish to use nuts in their products must use commercially processed (roasted, or otherwise heat treated) nuts.
- Q. Am I required to obtain liability insurance?
- A. The Department does not mandate you to obtain insurance. Consult an attorney or an insurance professional to discuss your product liability concerns and risks.
- Q. Can I get a home processor license exemption to make products for me to sell at my store or my restaurant?
- A. No. The home processor license exemption is not available to anyone who holds a DOH permit or Ag & Markets license. When a license or permit is held, all foods offered for commercial sale must be made at the licensed or permitted facility.
- Q. Can I make items other than those listed? Why am I limited to these items?
- A. The home processor license exemption is limited to foods where there is not a history of food borne illness and the nature of the product makes the possibility of illness less likely.
- Q. Why can't I make certain items, such as peanut butter or items requiring refrigeration, from my home?
- A. Items where there are legitimate food safety concerns, including products where there is no pathogen kill step, products which have been implicated in outbreaks, products considered Temperature Controlled for Safety (TCS) or Potentially Hazardous Food, among others, are not allowed to be made in an unlicensed and uninspected facility.

The exemption relates only to Article 20-C licensing. The exempt firm will be subject to registration by the Department of Agriculture and Markets. For more detailed information, please contact the nearest regional office.
